

How can I join ArbitralWomen?

To become a member, you may be proposed by a current member or you may apply on your own. Just mention the name of a member who recommends you and ask her to confirm her recommendation, or forward your CV and photo with your application.

Submit your application directly on www.arbitralwomen.org under "Become a member".

Students should indicate the name of their university and the nature of their current studies, to benefit from free membership.

The initiation fee is 50 Euros. Annual dues are 50 Euros, from June 29 each year.

How can I contact ArbitralWomen?

We welcome inquiries from women and men interested in our work. We are regularly approached by many organizations for conferences, information or press releases. Use the "Contact us" link on www.arbitralwomen.org.

Arbitral Women

A network of women from around the world involved in international dispute resolution

www.arbitralwomen.org

In the 1980s, there were very few women in the international dispute resolution community. Louise Barrington realized that they could benefit significantly from the creation of a network to enable them to share ideas, celebrate their achievements, and work together to find ways to promote women in the field.

In 1993, Louise gathered together a small group of women from around the world who were active in dispute resolution. ArbitralWomen was born.

In 2000, Mirèze Philippe established an electronic forum for the group.

In 2005, Louise and Mirèze formally incorporated ArbitralWomen as a non-profit organization.

Since then, the group has grown to nearly 500 members from more than 40 countries. It continues to advance the interests of women in arbitration and enhance their involvement.

ArbitralWomen provides a global forum for women active in the field of international dispute resolution, so they can exchange information about recent developments, maintain contact with one another, provide referrals, and promote their common interests.

Visitors may browse our website and discover more about the organization, its members and its activities.

What are ArbitralWomen's features?

- A network of women from diverse backgrounds and legal cultures working in the field of international dispute resolution.
- A source of arbitrators, mediators, experts, lawyers and practitioners from jurisdictions around the world.
- A source of information on recent developments affecting women in international dispute resolution.
- An opportunity to meet other women in the field, exchange ideas, mentor new practitioners and celebrate the future of women in arbitration.

What does ArbitralWomen do?

- ArbitralWomen organizes formal and informal events and gatherings, often in conjunction with major international conferences.
- ArbitralWomen helps locate speakers and practitioners in international dispute resolution from around the world; use the "Find a practitioner" link or "Contact us" on our homepage.
- ArbitralWomen offers a Mentorship program to its members.
- ArbitralWomen's Award assists female law students in related projects to develop their knowledge and skills in international arbitration.
- ArbitralWomen sponsors Annual Awards which support participants in the Vis Moot team competitions in Hong Kong and Vienna.